

About

Mona Lisa Schulz (Dr.Mona Lisa), is a medical intuitive. Dr. Schulz received her doctorate in behavioral neuroscience from Boston University School of Medicine in 1993.

In addition to her extensive background in health and brain research, Dr. Schulz has been a practicing medical intuitive for 19 years. During a medical intuitive consultation, knowing only someone's name and age, Mona Lisa discerns both a person's physical condition and the emotional state of his or her life, explaining how the two are linked.

Dr. Schulz teaches us how to become aware of how our symptoms of illness are part of our intuition network, letting us know when something in our lives is out of balance. During a medical intuitive consultation, there is no physician/patient relationship, nor is any psychotherapy being performed. Mona Lisa will educate you in how specific emotional situations in your life are associated with the increased risk of illness in a specific organ in your body.

One of the many joys in Dr. Mona Lisa's life is teaching individuals how to acknowledge, trust, and develop their intuitive skills. Every Wednesday at 2pm EST, she is host to the live call-in radio show, Intuitive Health at www.hayhouseradio.com
